No More Fanatics Anxious for Death Beneath the Cruel Wheels - Coolies Hired to Drag the Car Once Drawn by

The announcement that the once tamou tival of Juggernaut has so declined in pularity as to render it necessary for the esis to hire coones to drag the car, is a tre of the extent to which the destruc solvent of western thought is being d to eastern creeds. The car of the gud of Poorce was one of the most of Brahminic "proprieties," and elded to that of no other deity Indoo Pantheon. From every of the yeat empire of Hindostan pilficeked to share in it, and when the of Juggernaut was dragged once a from the temple in order to bathe gods in the cool water of the tank, le and a half distant, the wildest en-iasm seized the vast multitude of dethus asm seized the vast multitude of devotees. Thousands rushed to seize the cables, and so eager were the volunteers for this holy service that the best and greatest men of Orissa struggled with each other to obtain a hold upon the ropes. To use the language of an old writer who witnessed the Rath Jattra in its palmy days, "they are so greedy and segue to draw it that whosever, by shouldering, crowding, shoving, heaving, thrusting, or in any insolent way, can but lay a hand upon the rope they think themselves blessed and happy. And when it is going along the city there are many that will offer themselves as a sacrifice to the idol, and desperately liv down on the ground and desperately its down on the ground that the chariot wheels may run over tham, whereby they are killed outright. Some get broken arms, some broken legs, so that many are destroyed, and think to IN HOMOR OF THE GOD.

even a later date martyrs to Juggerware not infrequent. When ary, he describes the harsh gratobscens songs of the pricate in honor ties bestowed on the beef enting en, as a pilgrim announced himrendy to become a sacrifice to the buring or caring to prevent the man prostrated before the tower as it ing on his face with his ward. The multitude and him, leaving the space he was crushed to death by of the ponderous structure vild cry of praise was raised, and a the mod was seen to "smile" at the

It is, therefore, suggestive of a strange revolution in Hindoo opinion to hear that not only are victims lacking, but that, instead of thousands stranggling for the honor of a place at the drag ropes, laboring men, at so many annas per diem, have to be hired to perform the sacred function. The awe of the Indian people for who lord of the world! has been declining. For many years past the fame of the great god of Orissa has been on the wane, and the time when a human sacrifice was deliberately offered up to the hideous idol is fast getting beyond the power of the very oldest of the old Indians to recall.

NUMBER OF DEVOTRES. Admitting that the number of devotees year lasmaller owing to the loss of two pilgrim ships—and the prophecy that a third will be wrecked before the year is out lit is undersable that Jagganna'th is loomed, and the wealth which it brought to the priest and the towns-people of Poorce is likely to vanish before many years clapse. Sometimes a poor de-crepit wretch, weary of life or drugged by the priests with Indian hemp or opium, will wildly throw himself in front of the s, though he is usually dragged out the police, who have orders to prevent attempts at suicide. Saddest abase-t of all, from the standpoint of Brahin, it happened a few years ago, for the fine in history, that, to the horal chagrin of the priests, the car of man'th stood still in the streets of e, while the pilgrims looked on in subsequent famine has been If to their sacrilegious careless-However, the result has been that,

However, the result has been that, though worshipers still come to Poores, they just as frequently prefer to save themselves the trouble of hauling the gods, and as has happened on the present occasion, the priests, atraid of the idols never reaching the tank, have contracted with irreverential coolies to perform the job for a stipulated number of rupees.

Mortality there is, of course, still. The poor die for want of food, of disease, and of lack of proper accommodation. But there is no longer any need for interfering, for the wrong will soon right itself by Jagganna'th ceasing to "draw." The east, we fear, is already grown lax in its religious observances. The pilgrim takes a third class circular ticket to the holy place. Infidel shipowners issue passes to D'jeddah, and a tourist contractor escorts the faithful over the forty miles between Mecca and the sea. The Egyptian dervishes are becoming extremely chary about making a pavement of their persons for the Sandeeveh Sheyk to ride over, and now that the Indian exchequer is bemoaning the reduced returns from the "Jagganath trade," and coolies have to be three to drag the day, we seem a long way ribuath to do," and coolies have to be breef to drog the dar, we seem a long way from the time when Job Charnock, factor
